AVIATION MANAGEMENT

Aviation is the most opted career today as it offers lucrative opportunities and has flexible academic requirements. There is a vast scope for aviation management as it is witnessing new heights every day. India has the third-largest civil aviation market in the world. Ground handling, fleet management, ticketing, international tourism board, hospitality and in-flight services are included in aviation management. As air travel has become more convenient and pocket-friendly, there is a need for better management and global opportunities in the aviation sector.

According to the most current projections, over the next 10 years, demand will rise an average of 4.3% every year. According to the aforementioned projections and the latest news, the aviation industry will have a promising future and will increase over the following years.

“ Until you spread your wings, you'll have no idea how far you can fly. To most people sky is the limit. To those who love aviation, sky is home.
